"Curious Test of a Preacher's Talents."—Friends in the north were a short time since, disputing about the comparative talents of their respective ministers. Both at last waxed wondrous hot upon the subject, till at last one of them settled the question by claiming, with all the consciousness of victory in dispute, at the same time addressing his opponent: "Your minister, sir, is a perfect driveller—a downy squeaker. When he speaks of a certain gentleman, he

The Crusade.—There is no term more applicable to the proceedings of the Abolitionists than the Crusade, since they have just about as correct an idea of the work which they are striving to accomplish as the ancient Crusaders against the Infidels in the Holy-land. Not only like them have they commenced a sort of undefinable undertaking—but like them they are engaged in a moral enterprise against a people who are much wiser than themselves. Not only has the anti-slavery society failed in accomplishing any direct good for the black population, but they have been the principal instruments in counteracting the benevolent efforts of the only society which existed, whose object was to ameliorate the condition of the negro. They have not only done nothing for the benefit of the black population, but they have likewise prevented others from doing them as much good as they might otherwise have done. They pretend that they have no design to use any other than peaceable measures for effecting their object—that they mean to accomplish their objects only by influencing public sentiment. Then why do they not go to the South and preach their doctrines where alone exist any prejudices in favor of slavery? Why preach their doctrines to a community whose members are without an individual exception anti-slavery in their opinions? This community being already anti-slavery in their sentiments, unless the abolitionists claim that they should not only be opposed to slavery but hostile to slaveholders. Thus they profess to be engaged in a peaceful enterprise while they are making efforts to connect the present anti-slavery opinions of this community with feelings of hostility against the slave-holding States. The abolitionists therefore dare not go to the South because they know that their enterprise is not a peaceable one, and because they know well that the Southern people are not fools enough to be gulled by their professions of peaceful designs. It is not, as these crusaders would tell us, that the Southern people are opposed to the taking of any measures for abolishing the evil of slavery—it is, that they are unwilling to be instructed by a set of men who are ignorant of the policy of their domestic institutions. They wish to be left to themselves, or at least to be instructed by an individual who possesses some higher qualifications than ignorance and bigotry to recommend him. We believe that a man of liberal and philosophical mind, might previous to this present excitement, have made the tour of every town in the Southern States, whose professed object was to devise means for the final abolition of slavery, and have been received with welcome and treated with hospitality. Does any man suppose that the people of the North can possibly feel that degree of anxiety which is generally felt by people of the South concerning the evil of slavery, which bears directly against their own welfare? There is not a man in the Southern States who would not gladly listen to a candid exposition of the wrongs by which they are held in bondage, and of the evils of slavery, without involving themselves and their slaves in still greater distress. But let one of these Garrisonian fanatics undertake to instruct them, and they would tar and feather him in a short time, not because they are bigoted or unwilling to be enlightened, but because they are unwilling to listen to the dictations of an ignorant fanatic or to endure the treasonable declamations of a furious demagogue. If there can be a practicable system devised for extirpating the evils of slavery, it must originate in the slave-holding States, whose inhabitants alone are acquainted with the subject—but the people of the North are bound by the highest obligations of honor to oppose all attempts to interfere with their domestic institutions.

The Postmaster General.—The N. Y. Star has been busy lately in attacking the P. M. General, for the purpose, probably, of contributing towards his reelection by the Senate. The Globe has taken up, answered, and refuted the charges made in the Star, in the most satisfactory manner. The Star asserted that the recent regulations organizing the Department were not original, but "were of record and published in pamphlet form" long before 1814. No such "record" exists, says the Globe, nor can any such plan be found in "pamphlet form." The Star stated that Mr Bell, who had been a watchman in the department for a quarter of a century, had been reformed out of office, without any pretext, except the necessity of increasing the salary of Mr Kyle, the father in law of Mr Kendall, and that the salary of the chief Messenger had been reduced to three hundred dollars for the same purpose. The truth is, the salary of Mr Kyle remains precisely as Mr Kendall found it, although his duties have been doubled—the Messenger's salary is $800, and by the discharge of Mr Bell a saving of $600 has been made. The whole amount saved by the new arrangements, among superintendents, messengers and laborers is $4,060 per annum, and the amount saved in incidental expenses is believed to be much greater. The other statements of the Star in relation to a demand made by Mr Kendall, of Mr Gouverneur, Postmaster at New York, of the President's letters to Mr Munroe, and in relation to a notice said to have been given by Mr Kendall to the Postmaster at Philadelphia, that he must come out in favor of Gov. Wolf or give up his office, are out-and-out falsehoods.

Good News from North Carolina.—The entire vote in the several counties in Gen. Hawkin's district, exhibits a majority of 1018 for Gen. H., the democratic candidate.

A letter from Paris says, that the ex-sovereign of fashion, poor D'Armel, is languishing in prison at Caen, with scarcely a sufficient provision to supply him with the commonest necessities of life.

We shall commence the publication of the Address of the Committee of the Baltimore Convention, tomorrow.

The Atlas, the other day, asserted that the friends of Mr Van Buren rallied under abolition banner, in New Hampshire—to this the Concord Patriot replies as follows:—

"The Boston Atlas, with a shameless effrontery, peculiar to its editor, says that 'Mr Van Buren is the favorite of the abolitionists: and is urged upon that seat in this portion of the country, as a man disposed to favor their views.' Nothing can be more false. The abolitionists in this State, are to a man the opponents not only of Mr V. Buren but of the republican Party. They are in fact the broken down leaders of the old federal party—who all their lives have opposed democracy in some shape or other. The leaders in this State of the anti-slavery excitement, are such men as George Kent, Albe Cady, George Kimball and N. P. Rogers—the first three ex-editors of the federal Statesman and Journal, and the last a large contributor of federal scurrility to the same concern."

The N. H. Argus denounces the movements of the abolitionists as "violent and reckless, disregardful of the rights of our Southern brethren, and the safety of the Union."

The same allegation was made in regard to Connecticut—the Hartford Times says—

"The Democratic party of this State, and of every other Northern State, so far as we are informed, hold in as utter contempt and detestation, as well the incendiary publications, and the wicked attempts to thrust them on their fellow citizens of the slaveholding states, as they do the authors, and their exertions to propagate their sentiments among us at home."

The Hartford Democrat, another Van Buren paper, in speaking of the abolitionists, publishes the following:—"The new school of philanthropists at the North, known as Abolitionists, have become absolutely desperate. They will listen to no project which has for its object the gradual emancipation of the slaves in the Southern States, but are determined to rush on in their mad career, reckless of the consequences which may ensue."

Insane as this class of men are, they cannot believe for a moment that their scheme can ever be carried into effect. They know it is in its nature impracticable, and that it must lead to bloodshed and confusion at the South, and endanger the Union of the States."

Humbugging.—It is a maxim in the profession of the law that nothing appertaining to it must be left unread. The best wisdom of the world is contained in their learned volumes; and the destruction of any one of them must create a gap in the learning of ages. But it requires a life of hard study to become erudite in this science; and the people must therefore be taxed for the support of the profession. Every contract of the smallest kind must be drawn up in a legal form, or it will not be valid. A lawyer must be called therefore to draw it up, and other officers to seal it, each of whom must have a fee for his trouble and attendance. Books are made as a substitute for reason. He who should set up his own reason against precedent, would violate the rules of Courts and forfeit his reputation for legal wisdom. The utility of digests is to prolong suits—for however insignificant the case, it is considered by the true lawyer as infinitely important to be decided according to true precedent. Hence it is carried along from one session to another, because common sense must not decide until all precedents have been examined—lest human reason should accidentally contradict the gospel of the Courts.

Matthews.—The London Literary Gazette thinks that there never was such a man as Matthews—it says—

"He was a polyglot of men. Now he convulsed his auditory by his humours; now he melted them into had no higher power than his own. He was a man, an enchanter or enchanted sense of those who looked upon and heard him in his brightest and happiest moods. Such was often our good fortune, and the sad event which has eclipsed the harmless gaiety of nations has affected us with a sorrow not to be told in words. Dear Matthews, the life of society, is dead. The joyous hours we have spent with him are gone, and never to be recalled. His seat is vacant at the hospitable and social board; and never shall we meet the man who can fill it like to him, shedding a halo of mirth and enjoyment all round."

Anti-Abolition.—A school for the education of colored children has been for some time in operation in Canaan, New Hampshire, and the fact has been seized upon by the Anti-Slavery leaders, as sufficient ground for asserting that a majority of the citizens of that town were in favor of the institution. In consequence of assertions of this nature, a town meeting for the consideration of the subject was held on the 31st ult., at which it was voted that the school is a nuisance, and a committee appointed to superintend the removal of the building. The official resolutions, as published, are signed by the selectmen and the town clerk.

The story going the rounds of the papers, and which originated we believe in the Framingham Courier, that the Hon. Josiah J. Fiske, of Wrentham, in this State, has been appointed Governor of Arkansas, is incorrect. No such appointment has been made.

We can say, however, with great truth that a better selection for that office, than of Mr Fiske, could not be made. Mr Fiske is a gentleman of talents, and experience, an old school Democrat, and in every way worthy the confidence of the administration.

Miserable!—We were inquiring the other day for a man who was not happy in the enjoyment of the beautiful weather with which we were then favored. Now, we should like to see a man who is happy, during such cold, damp, drizzly, rainy weather as we have been punished with the last week. We venture to say that dealers in blue-devils have done more business within the last four days, than in the four weeks preceding.

A Committee of twenty-one has been appointed at Charleston, with the concurrence of the P. Master to accompany the mail to the Post Office, and witness the separation of abolition publications from its other contents, for the purpose of preventing their delivery.

Suicide.—Mr Morgan Barker, a clerk in the Post Office at Maysville, (Ky.) recently committed suicide by cutting his throat. He was insane.

Goosing is no goose at making Blacking—he vends a prime article, as all will testify who have used it, and that's not a few.

Our Correspondents must be patient—we have a number of excellent communications on hand which we shall publish as soon as possible.

Upon our first page will be found a number of extracts from a very amusing and witty work lately published in England.

POLICE COURT.

A Wandering Fiddler.—Owen Malone was arraigned on a complaint for being a common drunkard; but during the examination, a witness stated, that he fiddled for a living, in disorderly houses, and made more noise than any other man in Elliot street:—

Owen.—I'm obliged to make more noise nor other people, by my purfession.

Court.—The complaint ought to be amended, and you should be charged with being a common fiddler.

Owen.—Yes, that's my occupation, please your lordship—that's the only way I have to pick up my victuals.

Owen's self-vindication was interrupted by the Clerk, who read over again to him the complaint, which was enlarged and improved, by the addition of a second story, setting forth, "that he said Owen did, at divers times within the past three months knowingly presume to play on the fiddle for the recreation of certain idle, dissolute and lewd people," &c. &c. The testimony in support of this second count was decisive, and proved that Owen was a very popular professor of the violin, and was often engaged till three or four o'clock in the morning in courtizan ball-rooms, putting "life and mettle in their heels," by the animating notes which he extracted from his old fashioned instrument. It seems, however, that his strains were not always of that soothing sweetness, which is said to possess charms enough to "split a cabbage leaf;" for the dancing parties generally concluded with a knock down, when the language of the ladies became "thorough base." Says one witness—"They go the double shuffle there in great style, till they get all startled up in one general heap of fight." At this stage of the proceedings, a lady, with tears in her eyes, and attired in the latest summer fashion—viz: a red gown, yellow shawl, smoked lace cap, and green calash—stepped up to the Court's private ear, and whispered—"Your worship don't mane to punish me pair crather of a hisband for playing the fiddle, surely."

Court.—Yes, and if you keep company with the people he has been associated with lately, you'll soon be here yourself.

Lady.—Oh, long life to your rивrance, dont be hard with him.

His Honor's ears not being perfectly attuned to the rich guttural tone and accent of the lady, he understood her to say, "Long life to you for ever, but dont bark at me." But the faithfulness of his ear was promptly corrected upon explanation, and a stopper was clapped on Owen's "howling and scraping," for the four months forthcoming.

Ellen Cotrel, one of the "lady patronesses" of the bells, at which Owen was employed to fiddle, was next arraigned and in the very ball-dress, in which she was arrested:—black silk gown, large plaid shawl, or horse blanket, black chip bonnet, and black lace veil. As she was only proved to have been in the nightily habit of dancing, drinking, swearing, screeching, and scrimmaging, she was merely sent to the house of Correction for three months.

John Ferguson was willing to swear, that he bought a tackle and fall, worth $4.00, of a boy, for three cents. Ferguson had offered the articles for sale to a dealer in junk, and they proved to be the property of the Lewis's Wharf Company, whose clerk, a young lad, made a prisoner of Ferguson, with his own unassisted hands. Being a drunkard as well as a thief and a liar, he was committed to the House of Correction for six months.

Rather Personal.—In a communication addressed to the Editor of the Courier, and published in that paper, the writer says—

"I will just add, in reference to your short correspondent, who asks whether I 'intend to insult the intelligent part of your readers,' that if I do, he, at least, has no cause to take offence."

We will show up a certain set of turbulent politicians in the course of a short time—it is too hot weather to do it just at present.

Robbery at Saratoga.—A gentleman from Saratoga, says the U. S. (Phil.) Gazette, informs us that on Monday last, while a wealthy gentleman from the south, was standing in front of one of the hotels, a stranger came up, and laying his hand gently upon the shoulder of the gentleman, asked a civil question in reference to a stage which was preparing to start from the hotel, which was civilly answered, and the stranger thanked him and retired. Shortly after, the gentleman missed his pocket book, containing $600 in cash, and papers of great value.—Trans.

Politeness to a Judge.—In the course of a case tried in the Court of Exchequer lately, a case was cited from Vince's Abridgement, under the head "Contempt," where an order from the Roll's Court was given to a messenger to serve upon the party to whom it was directed. When the messenger obtained an interview with the party he said "I wait on you for the purpose of serving you with an order from his Honor the Master of the Rolls." To this the party replied, "The Master of the Rolls, who is he? he be d—d." The messenger, on his return, put his Honor the Master of the Roll in possession of the conversation which had taken place, and the contemptuous way in which the party had treated his lordship. His Honor upon this said he had a very great mind to commit the party for familiarity!

Fire in New Rowley.—Between 10 and 11 o'clock on Saturday evening last, a new dwelling house, nearly finished, was set on fire and burnt to the ground in New Rowley. The property belonged to Mr Nathaniel S. Sawyer. Suspicion rests upon one John G. Sawyer, an insane person, who was seen near the building just before the fire broke out, and has since absconded.—Haverhill Banner.

Joice Heth, the nurse of General Washington, aged 161, is expected in New York in a day or two, and will exhibit herself at Niblo's Garden. She is quite active and hearty, and has been a member of a Baptist church for one hundred years. She relates a great many anecdotes of young Master George, as she styles the immortal patriot.

Centennial Celebration at Acton.—The hundredth anniversary of the settlement of Acton was celebrated on the 21st of July. An address was delivered on the occasion by Josiah Adams, Esq. of Framingham, who is son of the second minister settled in Acton.

The Boston Commercial Gazette says "Mrs Royall ought to invent a flea-catcher." Is the editor in trouble? Had he said "a flat catcher" now, Mrs Royall would have got one in operation, and have caught him before he could say "Yes Marm!"—Spirit of the Times.

Rhine and Danube.—A canal, to join these two important rivers, is about to be commenced, and will form an important feature in the interior navigation of Germany.

The Bank Capital of Massachusetts alone amounts to more than that of the five states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, according to the returns of 1834, to the several state Legislatures.

Maine	2,724,000
New Hampshire	2,454,308
Vermont	911,900
Rhode Island	7,438,848
Connecticut	5,708,015

Massachusetts	29,409,450
Total of the five others	19,237,071

There are but eight states in the Union that have more bank capital than the little state of Rhode Island. It has more by two millions than the great State of Virginia. This immense Bank capital, wielded almost entirely by the Federal aristocracy, is one great reason why Federalism has so obstinately and so successfully struggled against those principles of Government, founded upon EQUALITY, which if successfully carried out, would introduce that Republican simplicity into all our institutions, guaranteed by that sacred charter of Liberty—the Constitution. Well will it be when the original intentions and purposes of Government are rightly understood, and the people theoretically and practically free—and undisturbed in the enjoyment of rational liberty—free of unnecessary taxes, of unnecessary burdens, of unnecessary laws, of unnecessary restrictions, and of the unnecessary interference of Government or the creatures of Government—then the word FREEMAN will be something more than a name. The tyranny of LAW is as bad as the tyranny of MAN.—Government was established for the protection of life, liberty and property, and all Laws foreign from these objects, ought not to be tolerated by the people. Let every legislator be impressed with these sentiments—let such laws be made as will protect one man against encroachment from his neighbor, and leave men to themselves without injury or favor from Government.—Gloucester Dem.

Washington Monument.—The venerable ex-President Madison, almost the only relic of the conscript fathers of the revolution, has been elected President of the Washington Monument Association, in the room of Chief Justice Marshall, deceased. The following beautiful extract is from his reply, announcing his acceptance of the honorary appointment:—

"I am very sensible of the distinction conferred by the relations in which the society has placed me: and feeling like my illustrious predecessor, a deep interest in the object of the Association, I cannot withhold, as an evidence of it, the acceptance of the appointment; though aware that in my actual condition it cannot be more than honorary, and that, under no circumstances, it could supply the loss which the Society has sustained."

A monument, worthy the Memory of WASHINGTON—reared by the means proposed, will commemorate, at the same time, a virtue, a patriotism, and a gratitude truly national, with which the friends of Liberty, everywhere, will sympathize, and of which our country may always be proud."

The monument is to be constructed by a contribution of a dollar, each, from citizens of the U. States.

Dangerous Bite of a Spider.—A young married lady, residing in the Bowery, on Wednesday morning last came down from her room with her cheek badly swollen from some cause, she knew not what. The pain and inflammation increasing, a physician was sent for, who pronounced it to proceed from a decayed tooth, which was accordingly immediately extracted, and he departed. The lady retired again to her bed, hoping the swelling would now cease—but she was mistaken. The pain became more acute, and she was satisfied that extracting the tooth had done no good.—Her maid coming into the room soon after, observed a very large black spider let itself down from the wall to the bed, and ran towards her mistress, when she kicked it. They both immediately concluded that the spider had been on the same errand before, and had probably bitten the young woman before she was up that morning. She sent again for the physician, and he examining her face, discovered that the reptile had actually bitten her, which was the cause of the inflammation. She now lies very dangerously ill, the swelling having spread over her neck and shoulders.—N. Y. Sun.

Fire in Troy.—An indorsement on the Troy Whig of Friday says—"P. M. A tremendous fire is now raging back of the Episcopal Church."

Baron Gros, the celebrated French painter, drowned himself in the Seine last week. His body was found near Menden.

The census of the village of Poughkeepsie shows a population of 6,343. Increase since 1830, 1,320.

Ancient and Hon. Artillery Company, }
Army, Aug. 5, 1835.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company on their return to their Armory from their short tour of Camp duty, beg leave most respectfully to express their grateful sense of the many kindnesses exhibited towards them during the past three days.

To Capt. Geer and the Worcester Light Infantry under his command they tender their sincere thanks, for their honorable escort, their tender of guard duty, and their other numerous personal civilities; and likewise to congratulate them on the soldierly appearance of their Corps, giving promise of prolonged honor to the Massachusetts Militia.

To Hon. Levi Lincoln, now as always the fast friend of the Militia, they would express their sense of the still continued kindness they have received from his hands a fresh addition to the great obligations, which this Corps were already under towards him. The use of his highly eligible grounds for an encampment, and the cordial welcome with which the Company were received at his hospitable mansion will ever be remembered.

The Company trust that Capt. William M. Towne and the other spirited citizens of Worcester, whose continued attentions at the festive board at all times, added much to the pleasure of our visit, will believe that the recollection of their kind attentions will remain indelible in the minds of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.

The Company present their respectful acknowledgments to Capt. Perry and the Worcester Artillery under his command for the loan of their Field Pieces, and to the Rifle Range, and Independent Boston Fusiliers, for the loan of their Camp Equipage.

The thanks of the Company are presented to Lt. Eaton and the "Soul of Soldierly" under his command, for their prompt and truly military escort into the City, giving us the proper "soldier's welcome home."

Published by vote of the Company.
